

Fuel Requirement Data Collection – Wholesale Distribution & Transport Sector (2026)

This data collection initiative aims to gather accurate and up-to-date information on fuel requirements from transport providers operating within the food distribution sector in Sri Lanka. The collected data will support improved planning, allocation, and policy decision-making related to fuel distribution.

Important Notice for Transport Providers

This form is specifically intended for transport providers who are not currently registered under any other ministry or formal government registry related to transport or logistics operations. If you are already registered under such a system, please follow the respective official data submission channels.

Purpose of Data Collection

The information collected through this form will be analyzed and compiled to:

- Assess sector-wide fuel demand
- Identify operational challenges faced by transport providers
- Support evidence-based recommendations

Disclaimer

The data collected is based on information voluntarily provided by transport operators and traders within the sector. While every effort will be made to ensure accuracy and proper analysis, this initiative serves as an independent data-gathering effort to support industry representation and policy recommendations.

Submission of this form does not guarantee fuel allocation or entitlement. The insights derived from this data will be compiled and submitted as recommendations to the Ministry of Power and Energy and Ceylon Petroleum Corporation (CPC)
